BOARD OF DEPUTIES OF BRITISH JEWS

By Herbert J. Samuel

Canadian Jewry is unrepresented on the Board of Deputies of British Jews, according to the 74th annual report of that body, just received. Constituent synagogues in the "Colonies," as they are still somewhat naively called in the report, are those at Brisbane and Sydney (three synagogues) in Australia, at Auckland and Christchurch in New Zealand, and at Cape Town, Durban and Bethlehem in South Africa. This rather a meagre list and is noteworthy more for its omissions than for its inclusions. It seems to indicate a lack of real interest on the part of the congregations of the "Colonies," which number upwards of two hundred, representing a Jewish population about four-fifths the size of that of the United Kingdom.

The Board of Deputies was founded a hundred and sixty-five years ago, and is the only representative institution of British Jewry. A gradual broadening out of the basis of representation has developed a body of 276 deputies representing sixty-eight congregations in London orthodox and reform, 112 synagogues in other parts of the British Isles, the above enumerated "colonial" congregations and a number of extra-synagogue organizations such as the Union of Jewish Women and the various friendly societies, or benefit societies, as they are better known in Canada. It is an imposing and powerful body, a Jewish parliament larger in numbers than the Canadian House of Commons. It has an honourable record of service in the furtherance of Jewish welfare. It has repeatedly raised an effective voice in European affairs wherever and whenever Jewish interests were involved.

The present report for 1925 catalogues a list of notable activities. It shows the careful watch that has been kept on parliamentary legislation that would detrimentally affect Jews. Close touch has been kept on the administration of the various government departments in regard to such matters as employment education, and the registration and naturalization of aliens. It has carried on a considerable amount of what we know as anti-defamation work. It has successfully warded off a number of efforts to interfere with the practice of Shechita. Attacks on the Jewish method of slaughter are continually being made in England with the avowed intention of bringing about its prohibition through parliamentary and municipal legislation. The Board, too, has had to tackle some internal troubles due to abuses in connection with the supply of kosher meat. Though no reference is made in the report, there is much evidence that an increasing number of "orthodox" Jews in England are dispensing with the use of kosher meat, including those who recommend it for others. Orthodoxy there, as here, has become largely a question of the type of service one enjoys on the occasion of the annual visit to the synagogue or of the preferable selection of a burial place. We may add parenthetically that it is a curious construction of mind that claims perfect freedom from religious observance while clinging scrupulously to the ritual which promises, as an obligation, the restoration of animal sacrifice in divine worship. With regard to the question of burial the time is perhaps not so very far distant when the problem

THE KEREN HAYESOD CAMPAIGN

By Ferdinand M. Isserman

An excellent response greeted the eloquent and stirring appeal of Rabbi Silver of Cleveland at the opening banquet of the Keren Hayesod campaign. Thirty-two thousand of the fifty-thousand-dollar goal was attained immediately. Forty thousand dollars had been pledged when this editorial was being written. Conspicuous by their absence from the list of Keren Hayesod subscribers are a long list of fine Jews and Jewesses who hold traditional views against Zionism. Many of these subscribe to the principles of liberal Judaism, and believe ERRONEOUSLY that liberal Judaism is hostile to the Palestine Foundation Fund.

In June, 1922, the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the authoritative spokesman of liberal Judaism by an overwhelming vote (with only one dissenting vote) decided to support the Keren Hayesod. In many of the American cities, liberal rabbis have been in the forefront among the Keren Hayesod leaders. Rabbi Silver, himself one of the leading liberal rabbis in America, is the vice-president of the American Zionist Organization. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, one of the aggressive and heroic champions of liberal Judaism, is chairman of the Keren Hayesod campaign of the entire United States. One cannot withhold one's contribution to Keren Hayesod by hiding under the wings of liberal Judaism. Liberal Judaism is NOT opposed to Zionism, and liberal Judaism is certainly not opposed to the Keren Hayesod.

We recognize that it is difficult for middle-aged men and women to change their mental as well as their physical habits. But may we point out at the same time that the inability to change a mental attitude in the face of overwhelming facts is indicative of an atrophy which spells intellectual death? The fact that 100,000 immigrants have in the past five years been saved from the seething caldron of confusion and suffering in which 3,000,000 Jews still languish, through the direct agency of the Keren Hayesod, ought to annihilate all opposition to Keren Hayesod. In those five years Palestine has rescued 100,000 Jews and for that alone it should get the support of all Jews. Wherever we turn in the world to help our suffering brethren, whose suffering is due only because they profess Judaism, who are enduring the stripes and wounds of those who bear the burden of ethical monotheism, we read the sign in cruel letters, "No Jews Wanted," except in Palestine. There they are being welcomed and there they are readjusting their lives.

No Jew can evade the challenge of Palestine. Contribute to the Keren Hayesod and help keep the gates of Palestine open for your troubled brethren. Toronto will attain its quota.

THANK YOU, DR. WISE

Last Sunday Dr. Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, speaking in a Greek Catholic Church of Passaic, N.J., addressed a mass meeting of mill workers who for the past thirteen weeks have been striking. He encouraged the strikers to persevere in their demands for a just

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

Among the members of the industrial committee of the Women's Hospital campaign who will control solicitations are: Dr. A. Bercovitch, Louis S. Bruenn, Miss Reba Goltman, Ben Isaacs, Jos. D. Rubin, Leo Rotsky and J. Woolfe.

For fifty-six years the Women's Hospital has fought against sickness and disease. It has given about 350,000 days of care to almost 20,000 patients. Between forty and fifty per cent. of this was free or part free.

It is an open staff hospital. People can be treated by their own doctors. Its running cost last year per patient was only $2.46, the lowest in Canada. In fifty-six years it has made no general appeal to the public, with the exception of two tag days. It has never been in debt. Although the Women's Hospital is a general hospital, it has nevertheless been the birthplace of almost 20,000 babies.

The massacre at Herrin, Ill., must have been a great disappointment to the many opponents of immigration and those buzzards of the press who live by swooping down to pick up material against the foreigners. There were no aliens prominent at Herrin where it was necessary for the militia to appear against riot and murder. The cast of characters in the order of their appearance and disappearance seems to indicate that the affair started as a monopoly of the native-born. "Blackie" Arms is alleged to have fired the first shot. The 100-per cent. dead bear 100-per cent. American names: Deputy Sheriff Treadway, Noble, Weaver, Ben and Mack Sizemore, Charles Briggs, Marland Ford. The wounded were John Smith and O. A. Davis. The affair was staged on election day, when the native-born, free, white and twenty-one, gather to enjoy the sacred right of casting votes. There is no mention of aliens even in the mob scene. Perhaps they were taking their lessons in citizenship at the time.

With what glee the editorial writer of Saturday Night must have grabbed the minutes of the seventh annual convention of the Canadian Labour Party, Ontario Section! Darling of the vested interests, what could be sweeter to you than a document containing the word communist with Jew added on to that? Let's take a look at you, little moulder of some of the public's opinion, and see how you work when you want to get good and nasty, if not so clever.

In the first place skip the first page. It says there that of 218 delegates to the London convention forty-one were Jewish. That doesn't sound many and impressive, and won't be worth much when planting poison ivy. Another thing on the front page you won't want for your purpose is the list of officers. For instance, the president of the Ontario Section is Rev. A. E. Smith, the vice-president is James Muldowney, and the secretary-treasurer is James Simpson, all of Toronto. The others are Bert Robinson, Mrs. Florence Custance, L. R. Menzies, J. W. Ahlquist, Sam Lawrence, Mrs. Janet Inman, John B. Loan, A. M. Barnetson, John MacDonald and also L. Soltz and James Biugerman, two Jews.

Better luck on the next page among the Communist branches. There are the Bulgarian, the Ukrainian, the West Ukrainian, the Finnish and the English branches, but what you want is something Jewish, so take the two Jewish branches and make what you can of them. You know that when the Communists get together in convention they may sing songs just as other people do when they are in conventions, and you know that there are Jews in the Jewish branches who know Yiddish better than they know English, so it ought not to be any harder than shooting fish for you to produce this result, an editorial entitled, "Labour and the Red Flaggers," for the April 10 issue of Saturday Night:

"The Ontario section of the Canadian Labour Party at its recent inaugural session in London, Ontario, got off to an excellent start. We were particularly interested in the singing of the Red Flag, especially the Yiddish version, which we are told found particular favour with a majority of those present.

"Then there was the resolution pertaining to a capital levy 'to pay the cost of the war and reduce taxation.' Just what there is to be left to tax when all the capital is chased over to the United States we were not told

"Anyhow it is all very interesting, particularly the Yiddish portion of the programme, which it is said found great favour with the Toronto delegates.

"When this country puts up its bars against further immigration from certain parts of Europe as it will be compelled to do in time, we will know where to start."

On the subject of immigration there is, on page three of the minutes of the convention, a list of the resolutions submitted last year to Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, and No 20 in this list reads: "Protesting against any more immigration until the unemployed workers are absorbed." Perhaps you didn't want to read on and see how much good exists even in the Red stripe of the Labour Party, but there it is. You are opposed to immigration from only certain parts of Europe, but the above resolution is even more comprehensive in the excluding of more immigration. This should draw you together under a head line "Saturday Night and the Canadian Labour Party at One." Then you could go out to Queen's Park with the other boys and listen freely to those naughty, wicked, uncivilized things that fall on the air. And you could all take hands and play "Here we Go 'Round the Mulberry Bush," the Jewish branches singing in Yiddish, of course, because they know better than English. f.f.c.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK

Marvelous beyond conception inaptly describes the glories of Canada's Rockies. To be fully appreciated they must be seen. To start out on a trip by one's self into this unfamiliar but far-famed paradise-on-earth, to many appears quite a task. Realizing this, Dean Sinclair Laird, of Macdonald College, an experienced Rocky Mountains traveller, for the third year in succession, has undertaken to conduct a party through this glorious wonderland.

A special train of dining, standard sleeping and observation compartment cars has been chartered, to leave Toronto on June 19 via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Stops will be made at Port Arthur and Fort William, which together form Canada's greatest grain ports; Winnipeg Beach, the popular summer resort for Winnipegers; Winnipeg, Canada's third largest city; Indian Head, the tree-distributing centre of the Federal Forestry Branch; Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan; Calgary, Alberta's largest city; Banff, the world-famous mountain resort; by automobile over 104 miles over the Banff-Windermere highway, the most spectacular drive in the Canadian Rockies; through Kootenay Lake to Nelson, the commercial centre of South-eastern British Columbia; then through the Okanagan fruit country to Penticton; along beautiful Okanagan Lake, and to Vancouver; thence by steamer to Victoria.

Returning, the trip will be by the main line of the Canadian Pacific, through the great canyons of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers, and through the Selkirks and Rockies, affording scenery such as can be found nowhere else on earth; Lake Louise, the Pearl of the Rockies, the most perfect gem of scenery in the world; another day at Banff, Edmonton, the Capital of Alberta; Saskatoon, the city of optimism; Devil's Gap Camp, on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora; thence to Fort William, where one of the fine Canadian Pacific Steamers will be used across Lakes Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll, then rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate.

Everything is included in the price of $330, from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accommodation in hotels, and bungalow camps, meals in diners, hotels and on steamers and sight-seeing tours at points visited.

The trip is open to all, and applications for accommodation are being received.

Fares from other points than Toronto will be named, and descriptive illustrated booklet sent on application to Dean Sinclair Laird, Macdonald College Post Office, Que.

Extract from the Seventy-Fourth Annual Report of the Board of Deputies of British Jews

Foreign Affairs

The foreign political work of the Board, transacted through the Joint Foreign Committee, has been of more than usual importance during the past year. It has dealt with Jewish problems in Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Roumania, Greece, Hungary, Tangier and Palestine, besides questions of a wider scope, such as the minorities procedure of the League of Nations, calendar reform, Russian refugees, and emigration. The outstanding features in this record are the Polish-Jewish understanding and the appeal to the League of Nations against the Hungarian "Numerus Clausus" law.

Nothing can be more cheering in itself and as a symptom of a better spirit in Eastern Europe than the Polish-Jewish agreement and the remarkable circumstances in which it was negotiated. For twelve years Poland has been the haunt of an anti-Semitism which, in calculated and insidious cruelty, has no parallel in the history of religious or racial persecution. In 1913 as a result of an electoral squabble an anti-Jewish boycott was set on foot by the National Democratic Party under M. Dmovski. This speedily ramified all over the country and throughout Prussian and Austrian Poland. It was organized with pitiless efficiency and succeeded in reducing the bulk of the Jewish population to a depth of poverty previously unknown, and at the same time stamped them with an outcast status analogous to that of the negroes in certain States of North America. Inflamed by the events of the war this situation remained unrelieved until the present year, in spite of the enactment of a liberal Constitution and the nominal repeal of all Jewish disabilities. Fortunately the Jews could not be prevented from exercising their electoral rights, and they became represented by a strong contingent of deputies and senators in the Polish Parliament. Here they formed an Opposition bloc with the representatives of other oppressed minorities, such as the Ruthenians and White Russians. With the beginning of the great economic crisis early in the year and the growing discontent in the minorities provinces, thoughtful men in Poland began to realize that a new policy was necessary, and Count Skrzynski, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, set himself to form a concentration of political parties which would enable the government to carry out a policy of conciliation.

In the preparation and execution of this policy the Polish Government paid the Joint Foreign Committee the high compliment of inviting its counsel and co-operation. In March Count Skrzynski met Mr. Lucien Wolf in Geneva and discussed with him the whole problem. On returning to Warsaw the Minister took the opportunity, during a debate in Parliament on March 24, of speaking appreciatively of the conciliatory attitude of the Joint Foreign Committee, and towards the end of May he requested the Committee to allow Mr. Wolf to go to Warsaw to assist in the work of appeasement. The invitation was accepted on condition that it had the approval of the Jewish Parliamentary Party, and that Mr. Wolf's activities should be limited to giving such assistance in the negotiations as the Jewish community might consider necessary. There seems to be little doubt that the mission had a happy effect. The leaders and press of all political parties gave an excellent reception to the British delegate, and thus an atmosphere was created which made for moderate counsels on both sides and ultimately for an agreement which has been hailed throughout the country as the beginning of a new era, both for Poland and her Jews. The men chiefly responsible for this epoch-making peace are, on the Polish side, Count Skrzynski and M. Stanislas Grabski, Minister of Finance and leader of the National Democratic Party, and on the Jewish side the Deputies, M. Leon Reich and Rabbi Dr. Thon. The full fruits of the new agreement can only be garnered with time, as they depend more on a "change of heart" than on any legislative concessions; but the recent accession of Count Skrzynski to the premiership and the confidence enjoyed in the Jewish Party by Deputies Reich and Thon afford ample guarantees that no effort will be spared to render the reconciliation lasting.

There can be little doubt that the wise example of Poland will be felt far beyond her frontiers, and we may look in the near future to a subsidence of the anti-Semitic movement in such countries as Roumania, Lithuania and Hungary. Meanwhile, however, the continued activity of this movement has to be reckoned with, and the Joint Foreign Committee has found it necessary not only to make representations to the governments of those states, but, in the case of Hungary, to invoke the powers of the League of Nations under the Minority Clauses of the Treaty of Trianon. The action taken by the Committee on this question, in conjunction with the Alliance Israélite, has been based, not on the local effects of the "Numerus Clausus" Law, but solely on its international reactions. The law is a standing incitement to similar breaches of the minorities treaties in other states, and it has had the deplorable result of diverting to the countries of Central and Western Europe a large number of Jewish students, who have been denied access to the universities of their native lands, and many of whom have become dependent on the support of their fellow Jews. The Committee made frequent representations to the Hungarian government in 1922, 1923 and 1924, but they proved abortive. Accordingly, towards the end of last year it was resolved to ask the Council of the League of Nations to obtain an advisory opinion from the Permanent Court of International Justice as to the legality of the "Numerus Clausus" in regard to the Treaty obligations of Hungary. The case of the Joint Foreign Committee was filed in Geneva last January, and practically the whole year has been spent in dealing with it. The reply of the Hungarian Government was deposited with the Secretariat of the League on May 19, and the whole case was then considered by a Special Committee which met in Paris on July 3. It became necessary to ask the Hungarian Government for further explanations. These reached Geneva on August 18, and were further considered by the Committee on September 23. A prima facie case was held to be established, and acting on a Report of the Special Committee the whole case was placed on the agenda of the session of the Council which opened on December 7.

At a meeting of the Council held on December 10, Count Klebelsberg, the Hungarian representative, stated that the "Numerus Clausus" Law was an "exceptional" and "transitory" measure, and that it was the intention of the government to amend it as soon as a normal situation was restored. In view of this assurance the Council resolved on December 12 to postpone action in the sense proposed by the Joint Foreign Committee, pending an amendment to the Law "in the near future." The Joint Foreign Committee has expressed satisfaction with this decision so far as it goes, but it will not relax its efforts to ensure a final solution of the question at an early date in the sense of the judgment of the Council of the League.

The only other case of an infraction of a minorities treaty which was brought before the League during the year and in which Jewish interests were concerned, related to Lithuania. The task of appealing to the League was, however, undertaken by the local Polish minority, and the Joint Foreign Committee limited itself to supporting the petition of that body. The grievances of the Poles practically covered the whole field of Jewish grievances, with the exception of the Sunday rest question, and for that, unfortunately, the minorities treaties afford no redress. The result of the appeal was extremely satisfactory. Some of the measures of which complaints were made were withdrawn by the Lithuanian government, and with regard to others assurances were given which satisfied the Council of the League that in substance the grievances would be remedied. On the question of Sunday rest the Joint Foreign Committee, after a correspondence with the Lithuanian minister in London, was unable to obtain any satisfaction, and had to be content with publishing the correspondence.

Roumania still continues to be a source of grave anxiety, owing to the intense bitterness of the anti-Semitic agitation in that country and its possible reactions on the government and political parties. So far, however, the government has maintained the peace, and has done its best to restrain the dangerous propaganda of the anti-Semitic leaders. It has consequently been the policy of the Joint Foreign Committee to avoid rendering the task of the Roumanian government more difficult by appeals to the League of Nations, but it is to be feared that such an appeal will become necessary if the Roumanian nationality law is not speedily modified. This law has been the subject of a long correspondence between the Committee and the Roumanian Foreign Office, and the Committee is still awaiting the fulfilment of pledges which were given by M. Duca as far back as September, 1924. On the other hand, the Committee has to record with satisfaction that the Roumanian Government continues to deal with the refugee problem in Bessarabia with patience and humanity, and that at the request of the Committee last September it annulled a scheme for the deportation of these unhappy people which had been drafted by the local authorities.

Among other questions dealt with by the Committee were the religious persecutions in Russia and the Sunday rest law in Salonica. These are both legacies from the previous year. They were the subjects of representations made by the Committee in Moscow and Athens, but, so far, no legal concessions have been obtained from the governments concerned. It is understood, however, that in both cases the application of the laws of which complaint is made has been appreciably modified, and the sense of grievance among the Jews certainly appears to have diminished. The Committee, however, is not relaxing its efforts and during the sitting of the League of Nations Assembly in September it obtained from M. Rentis, the Greek Minister of Foreign Affairs, a definite promise that the Sunday rest law and the law relating to the language of commercial books would be reconsidered by his government.

The Joint Foreign Committee wishes to place on record its profound sense of the loss it has sustained, in common with the whole Jewish community, by the death of Mr. H. S. Q. Henriques, K.C. As one of the Joint Presidents of the Committee, Mr. Henriques rendered services of inestimable value to the Jewish community. His high competence as a jurist was one of the most valued assets in the work of the Committee, especially in connection with the legal sub-committee of which he acted as chairman. He was a member of the delegation which represented the Joint Foreign Committee in Paris during the Peace Conference, and he contributed substantially to the success of that mission. The Committee has lost in him not only a wise counsellor, but a comrade and co-worker who had endeared himself to his colleagues by his many genial qualities.

PANTAGES

When father stars 'stepping' does mother stay at home by the fireside? That's the question answered in "Dancing Mothers," the new Paramount picture which comes to the Pantages Theatre, starting April 24.

The new vaudeville bill will be another smashing programme that features three distinct headline attractions. Jim McWilliams, the nut pianist, direct from the Palace Theatre, New York; Countess Sonia and her "Revue Satiricon," something new and novel in production acts; and LaVeen and Cross, direct from the New York Hippodrome in "Roman Sports and Pastimes" as they were not in the days of the mighty Caesars.

LOEW'S

Given a smashing, colourful action tale of romance and adventure, and told to produce it on a sweeping, spectacular scale, Allan Dwan has made of Francis Brett Young's dynamic novel, "Sea Horses," a thrill-crowded melodrama of striking beauty and picturesqueness, which will be seen at Loew's next week.

The plot deals in vigorous and refreshing manner with the stirring experiences of a lovely, cultured English girl on board an ocean freighter and in an isolated port on the East African coast.

HADASSAH

Those who took part in the Herzl Girls' Chapter mock trial were Mesdames I. H. Siegel, D. I. Siegal; Misses Reta Levine, Queenie Loveguard, Ada Levinson, Esther Posen; and E. F. Singer, Charles Benjamin, Alderman Nathan Phillips, Jack Markus, Sam Smith, Harry M. Finkle, Sam Heiber, Dr. I. H. Sackin, Dr. A. Lieberman, Dr. Saul Brealin, Charles Lewis, David Levinne, Teddy Goldsmith, William Sniderman, J. J. Glass, Saul Berkovitz.

of the disposal of the dead will be solved in the larger centres of urban population —and by the more enlightened elsewhere —by a general resort to cremation. The choice of a burial place will then become a matter of indifference with an inevitable decline in the number of those who retain membership in the synagogue on account of death.

Special reference should be made to the foreign political work of the Board of Deputies. That part of the report can speak for itself, as it is to be found in full on another page in THE REVIEW. We would address ourselves here to the question of Canadian Jewry's interest, and possible participation, in this aspect of the work of the Board. Why, it may be asked, does the Board of Deputies receive such insignificant support from the Jewries of the Dominions? The Board itself betrays a lack of appreciation of the nature of the "Colonial" communities. But it is not to be denied that, as far as the Canadian communities are concerned there is complete indifference to the existence of the Board. Membership in the Board can be obtained by any regular congregation, orthodox or reform, on payment of a small annual per capita contribution. This entitles the congregation to elect a representative to the Board. This does not in itself offer any particular attraction. Such a representative would logically reside in London and would for all practical purposes mean the addition of just one more individual to speak and vote at the monthly meetings. It is not by any means likely that such a body, which might conceivably include a dozen or more deputies of Montreal congregations, could usefully discuss such matters as the school situation in the Province of Quebec, or for instance, the characteristic Christian charity and goodwill manifested towards their Jewish neighbours by newspaper and periodical editors in the Province of Ontario. Nor could even the Aliens Committee of the Board be of very much help in making representations at Ottawa. In such practical matters the Board as at present constituted cannot hope to be of any benefit to the "Colonial" synagogues in Canada.

We do not like, however, to dismiss the subject without a fuller consideration. Canada is part of the British empire. Canadian Jewry is keenly interested in the fate of the Jews in Europe. The majority of the Jews in Canada have near relatives in Europe. No Jew in Canada has, let us hope, lost his sense of responsibility towards his brethren in Europe. Canadian Jews have given, and are still giving, their share towards the relief of the Jews suffering at the hands of "patriotic" citizens of "civilized" lands. Canadian Jewry is not bound by any Monroe doctrine, for Canada is a member of the League of Nations and a signatory to the treaties that contain clauses protecting minorities. The Jews in Canada have, therefore, every incentive—without any political or diplomatic reservations—to support actively the splendid efforts made by the Board of Deputies to ameliorate the condition of the Jews in Europe. Among all such efforts those of the Board of Deputies of British Jews stand foremost by reason of the ability with which they are directed, and of the weight that stands behind them. Canadian Jews are British Jews, and tangible support of the Board through membership would be only just recognition of its services.

From the communal point of view, Canadian Jewry is more closely allied to the United States than to England—inevitably so. England is a long way off. English Jewry is markedly insular in "Colonial" affairs. So far its attitude towards Canada, at any rate, has been only an asking one. Those responsible for advising the Chief Rabbi made a fatal error in associating his visit with an appeal for funds, even for so laudable a purpose as the War Memorial. The mistake was pointed out to them beforehand. The effect was to nip in the bud a nascent feeling for a rapprochement between the communities of the Dominion and the community of the motherland. But there does exist a desire for a more British tone in Canadian Jewry as distinct from the American tone. It would of course be stupid for us to divorce ourselves entirely from the organizations of the United States. We could not think of doing so for one moment without serious loss. As congregations we must be affiliated with the powerful and vigorous religious organizations of American Jewry. There is nothing in England to replace our membership in such institutions as the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the United Synagogues of America and the Union of Orthodox Congregations, with all their subsidiary associations. Something could be done, however, towards fostering a demand in Canada—if there were a supply—for English rabbis and, in the smaller places, for trained teachers who could act as rabbis on occasion.

The initial step towards the ultimate bringing in of the overseas congregations should be the creation of a committee of the Board of Deputies, composed of men of vision—we hope it would not be a "Colonial Committee"—to study and give attention to the conditions and needs of the Jewries throughout the Empire, and to evolve a scheme, based on the interests of the overseas communities—who in many respects have much to teach the old country—whereby closer relations might be established. And perhaps it is not beyond the dream of fancy to hope that one of these days, let us say in 1927 or 1928, might see the convening in England of a gathering of representatives, lay and clerical, of the overseas communities. In the meantime the report of the Board of Deputies is one that merits and will repay careful study in Canada.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

Kalich in Her Greatest Role, "Magda"

At the Royal Alexandra the week of May 3, Bertha Kalich and her superb company will appear for a limited engagement in Sudermann's masterpiece "Magda."

Kalich has given us many expressions in the past of her histrionic endowment, but according to the unanimous verdict of discriminating critics who have reviewed her "Magda," her interpretation of Sudermann's heroine far surpasses in conception, execution and finesse any of her former efforts, and lifts her into a niche in the temple of dramaturgy distinctive and alone. Her appearance here at this time is especially opportune, when there is a dearth of worthwhile offerings upon the legitimate stage and a contribution such as she presents is truly a rare treat to all lovers of the best there is in dramatic literature and histrionic reflection.

Her supporting company is an especially capable one embracing such splendid players as Charles Waldron, Kenneth Hunter, Warburton Gamble, Mischa Aver, Lester Alden, W. Messenger Bellis, Josephine Royle, Katharine Collier, Louise Muldener, James Dyrenson and many others.

wage and decent American working conditions, and urged them to continue their policy of law and order. It is not our purpose to discuss the issues of the strike. The metropolitan newspapers have printed all the facts, and they are available for all who would read them.

It does appear as if a group of industrial tyrants have been for years taking advantage of a host of foreign workers. These workers have now become articulate and are airing their sorely just grievances. We rejoice that a rabbi has taken up the cudgels for the workingman. Dr. Wise's congregation undoubtedly contains many employers of labour whose economic interests impel them to side against the strikers, but nevertheless Dr. Wise has come to the aid of the oppressed labourer at the risk of incurring the displeasure and ill-will of many in his congregation. For that example of courage we thank you Dr. Wise. We thank you furthermore, Dr. Wise, for having demonstrated that Judaism is a religion of social justice. Too other religious leaders are silent on the great social issues. Eloquent sermons about justice and righteousness in beautiful generalities are too often heard while within a stone's throw of the church or synagogue specific cases of injustice go on, human rights are flaunted, and brutal tyranny reigns. We always have felt that the pulpit must be specific—that if it advocates social justice, it must not do so only in theoretical terms. It must be courageous and where an occasion demands it, it must speak even if the front pews writhe and object. Rabbi Wise has so spoken, and has demonstrated dramatically that the Jewish pulpit stands for justice to the poor as well as to the rich, that the wrongs of a humble working man, who himself cannot speak are the wrongs for which religion must fight. For that we thank you, Dr. Wise.
